

Organic dairy and much more

IRISH family-owned organic food company Glenisk has introduced some scrumptious new products that will be a hit with all the family.

There are yummy blueberry and vanilla flavours, a new yoghurt for kids as well as a fromage frais range suitable for babies from six months.

Glenisk's goats milk yogurt is now available in four new flavours — banana, peach, raspberry and strawberry — and can be enjoyed by all those sensitive to other milks.

The range is also more eco-friendly with single pots made from wood from sustainably-managed forests, multipack sleeves are made from recycled paperboard and are fully recyclable as certified by the Forest Stewardship Council.

Parents should check out their website www.glenisk.com for recipes, information on organics, an organic blog, interviews with organic farmers and exciting new activities for kids including the Have a Cow! sponsorship programme. The site is also home to iMoo, (Irish Mothers of Organic) an interactive parenting forum.
