

Erin Brokovich set to visit Dublin

RENOWNED campaigner and activist, Erin Brockovich, who was the subject of the 2000 Oscar-winning film of the same name, will visit Dublin during this September, in a visit organised by the family-owned and operated organic dairy, Glenisk.

She will address an audience at University College Dublin, Belfield, at 1pm on Saturday, September 20. The event is being held by Glenisk to celebrate Ireland's National Organic Week, which runs from September 15-21.

Tickets for the event, which is open to the public, cost €27.65, and are available from www.ticketmaster.ie, or by telephoning 0818 719300.
