

SOCIAL NEWS

CORK ART FAIR

Featuring original paintings and sculptures from a mix of indigenous and international artists, Cork Art Fair runs at Cork City Hall from September 26th – 28th. The event has become hugely popular since its introduction in 2005. Check out: www.corkartfair.com

Sarah Carey from Malahide was the lucky winner of our Tiffany sunglasses competition from last issue, courtesy of Designer Sunglasses at Brown Thomas.

This month sees the release of A Restless Life (Liberties Press), a no-holds barred account of Leland Bardwell's life spanning five decades and unveiling the shroud of innocence that can cloud one's vision of the past. Despite the hardships of her life, this is far from a misery memoir. €17.50

THE WAIT IS OVER

This month and next, the Gate Theatre embarks on its first-ever all Ireland tour. As part of the theatre's 80th anniversary celebrations, their acclaimed production of Waiting for Godot will tour 40 venues across the 32 counties, playing for one night only in each.

SEPTEMBER

THE CULTURAL PREVIEW

Renowned American campaigner and activist, Erin Brockovich (above), who was the subject of the Oscar-winning film of the same name, will address an audience at UCD on Saturday, September 20th. The event is being held by organic dairy Glenisk to celebrate Ireland's National Organic Week, (September 15th – 21st). For tickets, call 0818 719300. All proceeds go to the GM-free Ireland Network.

Carton House in Maynooth, Co. Kildare is teaming up with Castletown House for the highly-anticipated concerts by Camerata Ireland on Sunday, August 31st and Sunday September, 28th. www.cartonhouse.com

Sculpture in Context, which runs September 4th – October 17th, celebrates its seventh year at the National Botanic Gardens in Drumcondra. ▼

